

Recommendation for Christopher Warrington:

Christopher Warrington was a student of mine in at least two classes at Phoenix Seminary.

I found him to have strong interpersonal relationship skills, and he is someone who is well-liked by others. He is a strong student academically and I would suspect that he does very well in all his classes. He is also a strong initiator of new projects and ideas, and he has an entrepreneurial spirit. He is also very creative.

Christopher did some free-lance design work for me related to the cover of a book that I was publishing. He carefully and accurately managed a large amount of data (national per capita income data for over 200 countries) and made a clear, attractive, color-coded map for the cover of the book. He patiently and accurately worked with me through multiple revisions, until the color scheme was exactly what I wanted. I found him very easy to work with, and he did high quality work. I am also aware of a web site he produced for a friend of mine (a lawyer) and I think the result is of excellent quality.

I am happy to give him a strong recommendation.
